

PUBLIC HEALTH FILM FESTIVAL

Dear interested parties,

it's that time again: from April 1 - 8 the Public Health Film Festival will take place for the second time. On the basis of selected films, the topics of Planetary Health, Public Mental Health and Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights will be addressed. Follow-up discussions with invited experts offer interested parties from research, practice, society and politics the opportunity for a joint exchange.

The festival trailer on our website www.phff.de provides a first insight into this year's festival program. The final program will be published on the festival website at the end of March.

The events will take place both online and on-site in Munich and are free of charge for all participants.

The PHFF is organized by young scientists of the Pettenkofer School of Public Health at the Ludwig-Maximilians-University Munich.

We are looking forward to your participation.

Best regards

Your team of the Public Health Filmfestival
